Nine cases out of ten the man who once smokes a WDC Pipe becomes a life member of the WDC club. He can't help it,—a WDC is certainly a man's smoke. It's as sweet and mellow as carefully selected French briar and expert seasoning can make it. Not only material of the first water, but craftsmanship of the highest order, and designs that are most pleasing—combine to make the WDC Pipe a smoke of peace, contentment and satisfaction. Any good dealer will confirm this.

TAKE HEED.

First Frosh (after last exam.): "Well, how did you hit it?"

Second Frosh: "For about a nine, I think. How did you make out?"

First Frosh: "I made about a ten-ten."

Second Frosh: "A ten-ten? How did you do that?"

First Frosh: "That's the time my train goes."

HOWZAT.

A pretty girl was eagerly watching a drill at a camp, when a rifle volley crashed out. With a surprised scream, she shrank back into the arms of a corporal who was standing behind her.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," she exclaimed, blushing, "I was so frightened by the rifles."

"That's all right," said the corporal. "Let's go over and watch the heavy artillery."

COME ON.

'22: "I saw a thinly clad girl on the street last night."

'20: "From choice or necessity?"

Burro notices that Mellin's Baby Food Company advertises in the M.I.T. "Tech". Certainly, the present Freshman class assures the success of such an ad. in one of the Lehigh Publications.

THE ONLY GIRL.

She is not distant, —dignified,
But chic, demure,
Gay, gleaming eyed, and sparkling with allure.

She is not cool, indifferent,
But friendly, sweet,
With clinging hands, —yet quite discreet.

She is not fickle, prone to stray,
But constant, true,
I cannot find a girl like this. —Can you?

ALWAYS THE WAY.

Prof: "Success, gentlemen, has four conditions."

Voice from Back Row: "Tough luck, the Secretary will kick it out of college."

'TIS TRUE.

First Frosh: "Going over to have your picture taken today with the class?"

Second Frosh: "No."

First Frosh: "Why not?"

Second Frosh: "My class hasn't entered college yet."

THE FINAL EQUATION.

OH, YES.

A negro sergeant was drilling his men and noticed that one in the rear rank was somewhat bow-legged.

"Stand at 'tension, nigger,'" he barked.

"I'se at 'tension, Sa'gent."

"Nigger, from yo' knees up yo' is at 'tension, but from yo' knees down yo' is at parade rest."

ACTUALLY HAPPENED.

Prof: "Why is it that corporations have no soul?"

Stude: "They are managed by a board of directors who receive no pay for their work, and therefore do not take any great interest in it."

Prof: "Don't get paid? Where did those twenty dollar gold pieces come from that I used to have slipped into my hand after a director's meeting?"

Stude: "Oh, they were trying to buy your vote."

AND THEY TURNED THE HOSE ON HIM.

*The church was doomed. Great tongues of fire
Fanned by the north winds fiendish ire
From door and window broke.
And, as he watched the curling wreaths
Mount to the sky from spire and eaves,
He murmured, "Holy Smoke!"*

"Do you suppose she'll think up any higher than she did for the last one?"

IN THESE RED DAYS.

The workman was digging. The wayfarer of the inquisitive turn of mind, stopped for a minute to look on.

"My man," said the wayfarer at length, "what are you digging for?"

The workman looked up. "Money," he replied.

"Money," ejaculated the amazed wayfarer, "and when do you expect to strike it?"

"On Saturday," replied the workman, as he resumed operations.

VOLUME XXX.

JANUARY, 1920.

NUMBER FOUR.

Published monthly by the students of Lehigh University. Subscription two dollars and a half, or two dollars if paid before December 1st. Single copies, twenty-five cents. Address communications to the Editor, Bethlehem, Pa. All business communications to Edward A. Mooers, Psi Upsilon House, University Campus. Entered at the Bethlehem Post Office as second class matter.

BURRO goes to press joyfully this month, for he realizes that he must eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow he may die. The great slaughter will be fast approaching by the time that his latest attempt comes before the student body, and he has been here long enough to realize that the month of January is no time for play. He turns to more serious thoughts in this issue, he may seem somewhat gloomy, but he feels that he is only reflecting the thoughts of his readers. With that ragged, wornout feeling that we all experience after a holiday season at home, dashing around with gay society, it is an ugly thought that we have in mind when we come back and face the dreaded mid-years.

BURRO hopes that not many faces will disappear at this semi-annual harvest; it is to his interest that not many faces vanish from our midst, because with that event, his list of readers may be somewhat depleted. He feels so much for his readers that he takes this opportunity to wish them well in their ordeal, and to urge them to hit the books for the home stretch. He knows that the motto: "As we hope for mercy, mercy shall be yours", did not originate with the powers that be in this University, and he knows only too well that there are no gifts.

To close a gloomy and sombre editorial, he takes pleasure in announcing that he will return to a lighter vein next month. He has pondered for a long time over an Awful number, and he is going to be very awful in his next issue; he will throw away his New Year's resolutions for the time being and devote his entire attention to the NIGHTMARE Number, which will appear after the examinations.

TO the ladies we make our bow at this time and ask them for their attention. We are going to do something which has never been attempted by a BURR board, but which nevertheless is not an original idea with our staff. Those whom we imitate in our venture should feel complimented that we are following in their lead, for "imitation is the sincerest flattery".

The present board which will resign about the first of April with the publication of their April issue intend to make their last journalistic work in college the best ever. They feel that they are not capable of doing it themselves, so they are turning to those brighter lights of the fairer sex, who wield either pen or brush.

THE FASHION NUMBER of the BURR will appear on April first, to which all contributors will be ladies. All material must be submitted to the Editor at the Psi Upsilon House, South Bethlehem, Penna., not later than March first. All contributions for the cover must be in our hands by the fifteenth of February. BURRO also announces that he will offer a prize for the best piece of text, for the best cover, and for the best piece of black and white art work to be used in the interior. All contributions must be signed, and if the contributor is a student at any school or college, the name of the institution and her class should accompany her name.

Ladies: we have placed ourselves at your mercy. We hope that you have seen enough of the BURR to recognize our standard, and that you will favor us with your best efforts. Don't disappoint us.

BURRO would like to call attention to the following letter which he has received from JUDGE:

JUDGE is going to hold a COLLEGE WITS CONTEST, to be run on the same principles as an intercollegiate track meet. Pictures, poems, articles and jokes are invited as entries in this contest, from undergraduates of all colleges.

All material accepted will be published in a special COLLEGE WITS CONTEST NUMBER of JUDGE, to appear March 6. Each contribution published will bear the name, class and college of the contributor. And will score for his or her alma mater. And be paid for.

The best picture wins a silver cup. So does the best text contribution.

The college making the best showing wins the large silver trophy for one year (it must be won three times for permanent possession).

All material entered in this contest must be received at the JUDGE OFFICE by February 1; color designs (in all mediums) for cover by January 15.

By special request, all articles that are submitted by Lehigh men must pass through the hands of the Editor-in-Chief of the BURR, and be countersigned by him. This action has been taken by several of the other universities, and is done with the purpose of saving the editors of JUDGE much unnecessary work.

It is to be hoped that all men in Lehigh who have any talent in these directions will devote some of it to this work. We cannot recall a time when any of our better contemporaries have devoted an entire number to college men and women, and we should make the most of our opportunity now. Snap out of it; let's go and get that trophy, as well as the individual prizes.

REAT has been the excitement at different times during the past two months in the student body about the action of the faculty in regard to certain privileges which the student body has enjoyed in the past. It has been interesting to note that Lehigh has not been spared in the general feeling of the world to-day, a restlessness has pervaded our camp, and we have heard the arguments both of the conservatives and the radicals. It is another proof that all men are being affected in the same way, as a sort of aftermath of the war.

There has been a great feeling among some groups of men that the privileges of the student as well as his rights are being encroached upon. According to the old order of things, certain privileges have been withdrawn and it seems as though the withdrawal of others is under consideration. It is an idea that does not have the assurance of success that the faculty may have, if they contemplate the imposition of rule after rule and regulation after regulation, so that in the end, the University, in which student government is said to exist, will be hampered and entangled in every phase of its student life.

On the other hand, the faculty has just cause for complaint on some of the points which they have raised. The students have abused some of the privileges which were extended to them, and this abuse has caused the administration to consider the action which they have since taken. Furthermore, the faculty has been extremely fair in listening to the arguments which the student body has presented, and as is a well-known fact, has come forward and met some of our demands. The fault of the misunderstanding does not lie wholly on their side by any means.

It appears to us that the opinions of the two sides in some measure represent that old conflict of forces, "when an irresistible force meets an immovable body." Nothing will ever be gained, unless both sides are willing to listen to the arguments and beliefs of the other and consider them as wisely as they consider their own. Before the moderates and the thinkers of both sides lies the task of adjusting a permanent future policy that will be both equitable and practical.

That the electric light bills on the campus are running high this month

That the prohibition bars are standing idle

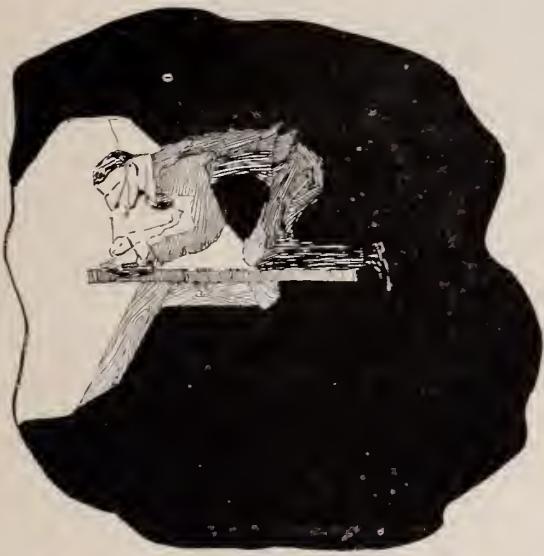

That some of us are thinking of herding cattle for a living after next month

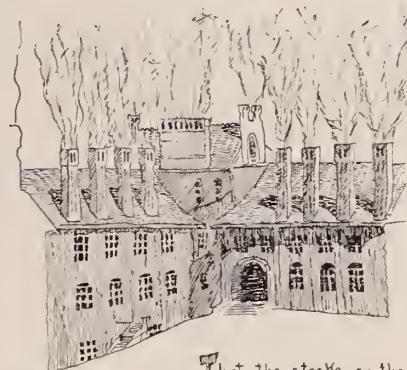

That so-long-boys-I-guess-I'm-through expression

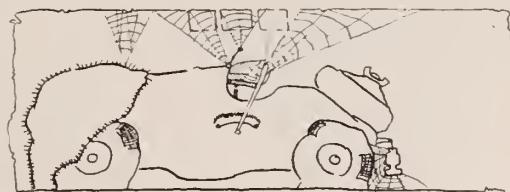

That Minnie goes to the movies alone, now that her college friend is working nights

That the drawing boards are working overtime

That the stacks on the Chem. Lab belch forth volumes of fumes

That the axle on the little old bus is getting rusty

That the fellow who always used to sleep through lecture is wide awake these days

That our meek little professor has suddenly assumed a merciless look

THE SYSTEM.

The first frater fraternitas,
In starting up a "crowd",
Did scratch his prehistoric head,
And thiswise thought out loud.

"Gadzooks, this job of pioneer's
A cinch like A B C;
I'll take the Grecian alphabet
And cut out letters three."

But still, this ancient brotherhood
Quite plainly lacked in "gyp",
Till they in wheezy chorus cried:
"Hooray, we've got the grippie."

NOT BAD.

He: "Let's get married."
She: "Yes, but whom will we marry?"

IN THE INTER-FRATERNITY
BOWLING LEAGUE.
THE HIGH SCORER.

ABSOLUTELY.

'21: "Well, old man, what did you make on that exam?"
'22: "Oh, I think about minus 273 degrees."
'21: "Hannibal, how could you make such a mark?"
'22: "Well, that's the absolute zero, isn't it?"

TEN YEARS FROM NOW.

Employer: "What education have you had?"
Applicant: "College education; Lehigh and —er—" Employer: "Well, go on."
Applicant: "I was expelled, sir; but I afterwards graduated from Lafayette."
Employer: "Young man, I don't care where you graduated, but I will employ you on the strength of your expulsion from Lehigh."

WE OFTEN WONDERED.

"Chaucer must have had a stenographer to dictate to."
"Why do you think that?"
"Look at the spelling."

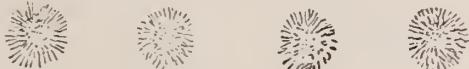

AND STILL THEY COME.

Student: "We spent all day in the mechanical lab, trying to find the overall efficiency."
B-Thorpe: "Isn't it remarkable, that nowadays even clothing is tested?"

PROOF FOR POLYGAMY.

*King Solomon and King David
In youth led wayward lives.
Each had a few affinities
Besides their numerous wives.*

*But when old age came rolling on,
With all its aches and qualms.
King Solomon wrote the proverbs,
And David wrote the psalms.*

WELL, WELL.

Professor: "What section of the train does the most damage to the rails?"

Student: "The wheels."

OLD STUFF.

Professor: "Give me an example of the double negative."

Frosh: "I don't know none."

LIGHTSTRUCK.

Zizzy: "Doesn't the moon look engaging?"

Zazzy: "Yes, there's a ring around it."
And their friends received invitations.

WELL, WELL.

"What are you going to do?" she asked meekly as he slowed down the car.

"Kiss you," he replied boldly.

"That's what I thought." Then the brake bands caught fire.

NOT BAD.

First Stude: "What would this nation be without women?"

Second Stude: "A stagnation."

POKER TERM.

A QUEEN FULL.

THE WAY OF FLAPPERS.

Adele: "Oh, my dear, I had the most thrilling moment of my life last night at a restaurant. The electric lights went out unexpectedly and he kissed me—such a long delirious kiss of bliss."

Marian: "Who kissed you?"

Adele: "Who? I don't know, dear. That is just why it was so thrilling."

THE SHADES OF NIGHT WERE FALLING FAST.

LIKE OLD TIMES.

Buck private, just out in his R. O. T. C uniform--"Do you know, these clothes spot easily?"

Luck private: "Yes, I spotted yours away up the street."

SOCIETY REVERSED.

Stude I: "Who was that guy we just passed?"

Stude II: "You mean that distinguished looking man, who wore a high hat, frock coat and everything?"

Stude I: "Yeah."

Stude II: "That's the plumber going up to our house to mend the shower."

OFTEN HEARD.

Frosh: "I'm in awful trouble, and "

Senior: "Shut up, I need some credits too."

LIKE A VIC.

Senior: "Bill has a good mechanical brain."
Frosh: "What does he do, wind it up?"

TOO TRUE

"Will you be mine?"
"Yes, till we're married."
"Till we're married?"
"Yes, then you'll be mine."

FOR PEACE TIMES ALSO.

Commands for troops in action and in drill need not fall into disuse with the end of the war. Many of them may be used with effect in civil life, as for instance:

Traffic cop to line of motorists: "In place, halt."

Busy business man to waiter: "Double time, march."

Young woman to her returning soldier fiance: "Present arms."

Shopper to saleslady: "Charge."

Swimming instructor to his pupil: "Fall in."

Irreate mother to daughter, who has applied rouge: "As you were."

Hotel clerk to bellhop: "Front."

Impatient father to young man, staying overtime with his daughter: "Company dismissed."

Economical landlord to furnace stoker: "Cease firing."

COME ON.

Lehigh Stude: "Don't you like to go to school?"

B-Thorpe Stude: "Oh, I don't mind going to school, but I certainly do hate going to classes."

LISTEN, LISTEN.

'22: "That girl's a miser when she dances."
'23: "Huh, how's that?"
'22: "Yeh, pretty close."

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR.

RAVINGS OF A BACHELOR.

I dislike women,
They make me nervous.
* * * * *

For the first few years, a wife is an asset; afterwards, a liability.

When a woman begins to talk confidentially took out for trouble.

When you tell a woman you love her, she is either highly insulted or greatly relieved.

* * * * *

I dislike women,
They make me nervous.

WORDS OF TRUTH.

Yes, little vampire,
If you sigh
You'll get his fraternity pin
By and by.

GOOD ODDS.

He: "I'll bet you a kiss I'll steal a kiss from you."

She: "And I'll bet you two kisses you can't"

In spite of the fact that there is plenty of room at the top, the chiropodist begins at the foot and stays there.

ZOOLOGY.

When summer's sun is stewing one
Into a chop or sirloin rare,
Proud man is prone to gasp and groan
And wish he were a polar bear.

This plaintive lay he stows away,
When winter whistles down the flu.,
And wants to be a chimpanzee,
A crocodile or kangaroo.

Though prohibition may be a possibility in Great Britain we note with pleasure that our English contemporary, "Punch", is as popular with Johnnie Bull as ever.

"I'm feeling down in the mouth," said Jenks to Blinks, after a night in a country inn. "How so?" asked Blinks. "Oh, that blamed pillow of mine had a hole in it."

YUM, YUM.

"One enjoys a good grind now and then," said the humorous cannibal, as he devoured the valedictorian.

NOTICE.

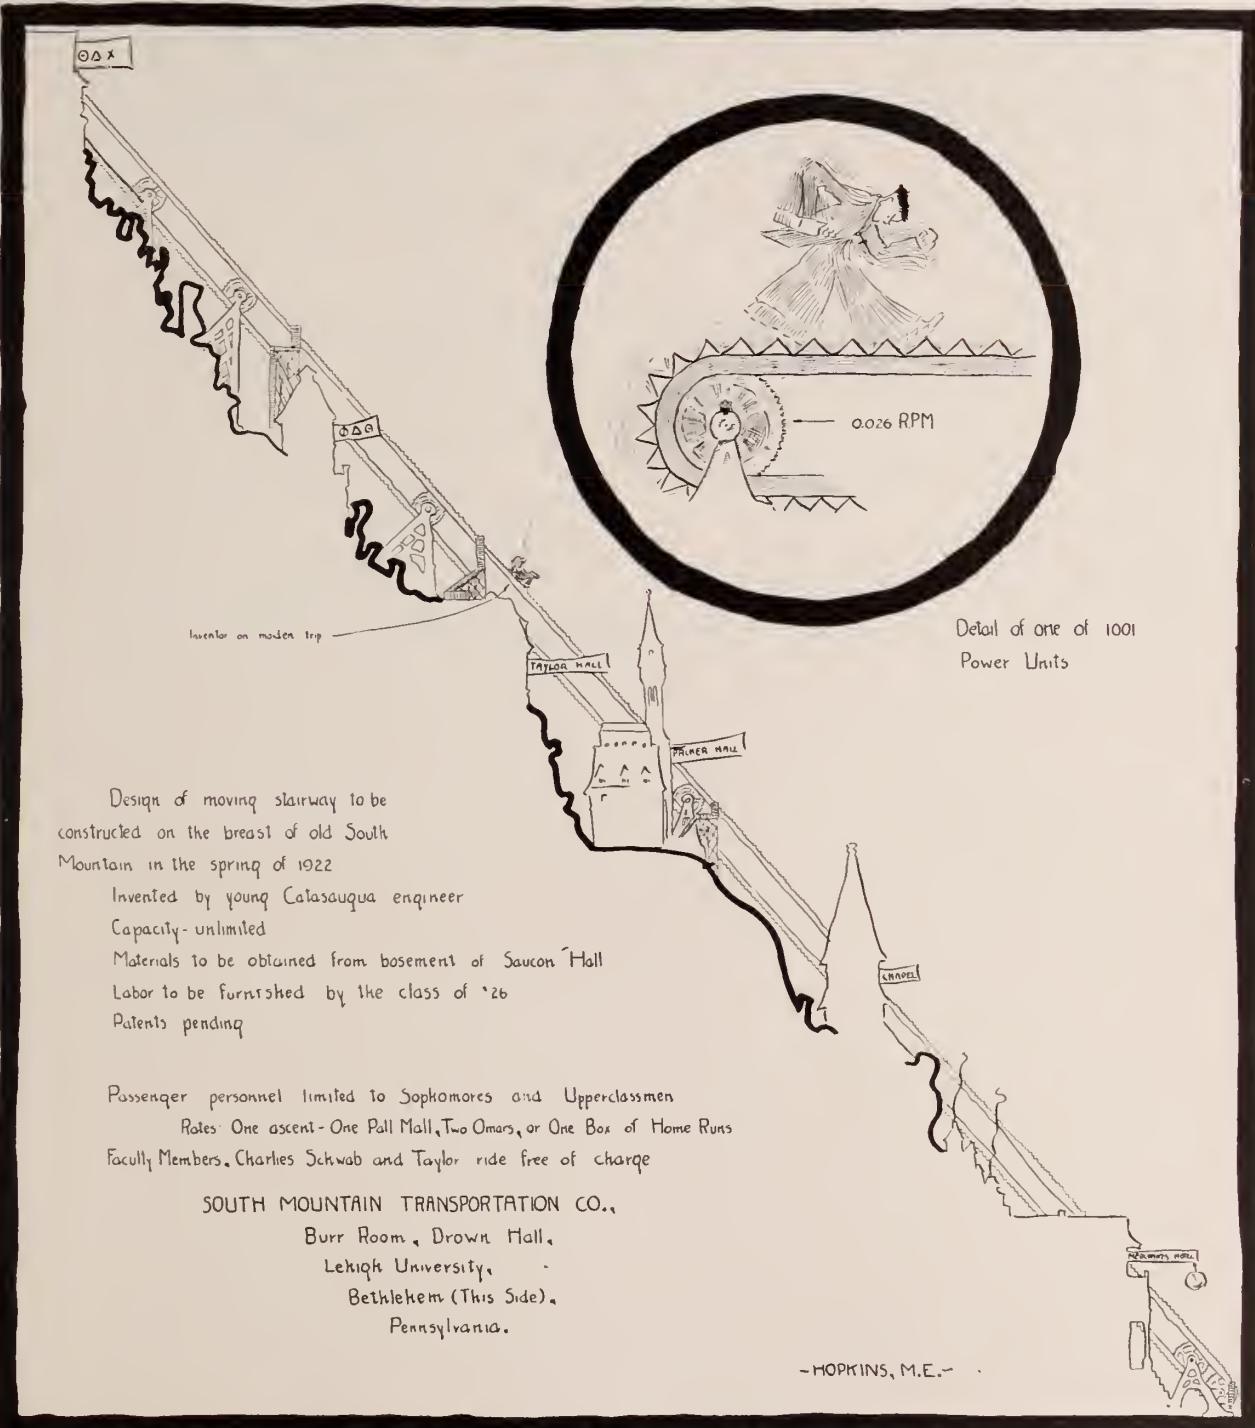

Timetables for all points north, south, east or west, may be had in the office of the Secretary of the Faculty after February 7th.

NECESSARY.

Jack: "Do you think a college education affords an important advantage?"

Harry: "Sure. You have to have it to get into a University club."

NEW INVENTIONS.

Gridiron Duke, the undefeated YMCA chess champion, says he fears that his days of eligibility for the team are numbered

Fat E Nuff, chief judge of the squash courts, says he has no fears as he is carrying a light schedule this year, but that he feels for us boys

Monte Crisco, Jr., son of the great syrup king, Phi BK candidate of '23, says he expects to pull an Edison on the sleep shortly

Second Stude: "Don't ask me in here."

THERE'S A REASON.

Canadian: "Why are you called 'Captain', Mr. Ex-Cashier? Did you serve in the war?"
Ex-Cashier (late from the U.S.A.): "No, but I'm a skipper from the states."

WHO EVER HEARD OF

The Tau Beta Pi house?
A Cotillion without stags?

Freshmen pledged Phi Beta Kappa?

'22: "There is a use for everything in this world."
'23: "Is that right? Then tell me the use of a jealous wife."

'22: "Certainly. If there were no jealous wives, how do you suppose homely stenographers would get jobs?"

Science can cut through almost anything—except mental concrete.

LISTEN TO THESE.

Today, if there be progenies
Of that old guy, Diogenes,
They waste no time like he.
Not they. They keep their lanterns trimmed
And search, and search, with hope undimmed
For sugar for their tea.

And Cleopatra, gay old girl,
When she drank wine, she'd take a pull
And toss it in keiplunk.
She'd make a more unique display,
By dropping in her cup to-day
A treasured sugar lump.

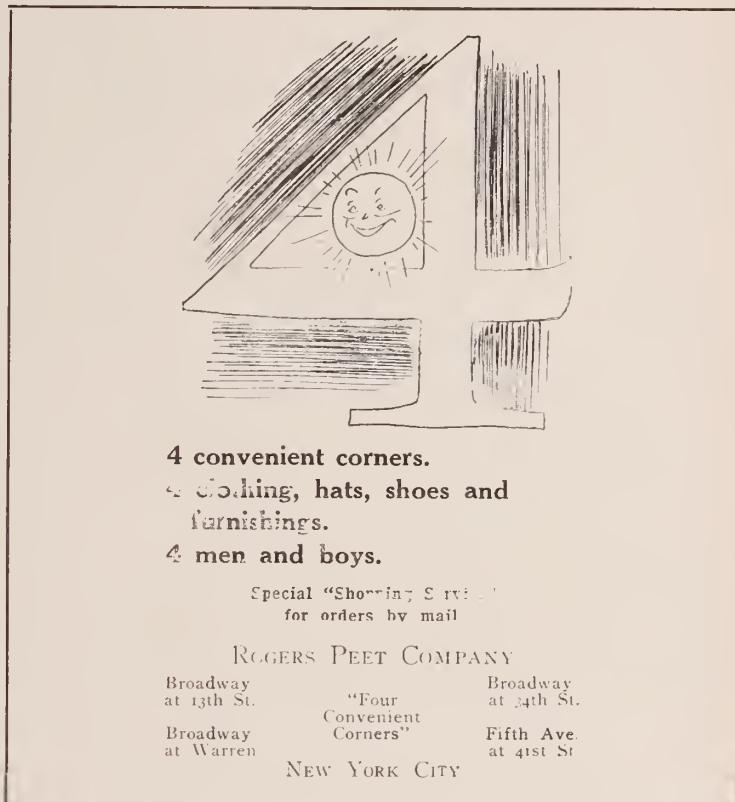

And Jason, sailing back to Greece,
Brought nothing but a Golden Fleece
Upon the Argo's crew.
And Mrs. Jason did not frown
For granulated, white or brown.
But let him try it now!

ONE SLAM.

"I'm awfully sorry, Miss Thorpe," drawled the fashionable youth, "that I forgot your party last Friday night."

"Not the Oldest—Just the Best"

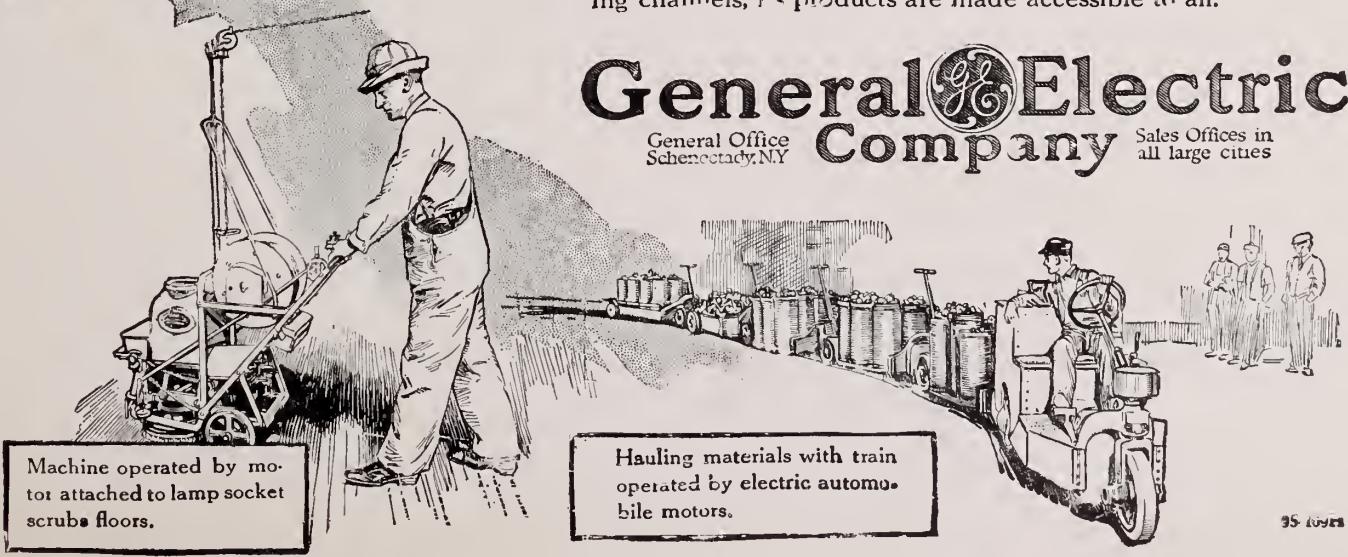

Electricity— the Master Force in Manufacturing

THE marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made pleasant by his command of this magic power.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical throughout—is a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horse-power of driving energy is brought by three small wires from a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, sifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from scrubbing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous—superhuman—made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electric generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Second, through many years of active co-operation with hundreds of manufacturers, it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and other distributing channels, its products are made accessible to all.
